Verify Your Activation Code The first thing you need to do is verify if the correct activation code was included in your product packaging. If it was, make sure that you are inputting the correct code under the "Registration" tab of your Antares Ilok installation program. If you are sure that you have entered the right activation key, look for an error message on the window to learn what went wrong. You can then proceed to troubleshoot or contact your manufacturer for further help if necessary. The activation code is normally available at the bottom of the packaging of the software. If you cannot find it, most likely they did not include it in your package.
